STATEWIDE CURRENT SITUATION: Governor Greg Abbott provided an update on Texas' response to winter weather that is currently impacting the state. During the press conference, the Governor reported that 27 state agencies are responding to the impact of the storm to ensure Texans have the support and resources they need to stay safe. Importantly, the Governor noted that the Texas power grid is fully functioning and continues to be reliable.

While precipitation, including freezing rain, snow, and sleet, will begin to dissipate over the next day, lingering impacts of the cold weather such as dangerous wind chill will continue to be felt throughout the state into the weekend. Travel continues to be discouraged due to icy conditions on roadways. The Texas Department of Transportation has transitioned from pre-treatment of roads into clearing and de-icing. Texans are encouraged to monitor road conditions at drivetexas.org. Stranded motorists can call 1-800-525-5555 for assistance from the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Governor Abbott issued a disaster declaration for 17 counties (Bosque, Dallas, Delta, Denton, Ellis, Fannin, Grayson, Hopkins, Hunt, Johnson, Kaufman, Lamar, Navarro, Rains, Red River, Rockwall, and Williamson Counties) most affected by the icy conditions. This includes waiving regulations to ensure these additional linemen can more rapidly make repairs to power lines.

Texans are encouraged to monitor road conditions at drivetexas.org. Texans can also access power line safety reports and contact their transmission company at puc.texas.gov.

OPERATIONAL PRIORITIES:

1. Protect life and property.
2. Support rapid & effective response.

TDEM Communication Coordination Group (CCG): There have been no reports of major communications outages. Overnight, in Abilene, Hendrick Medical Center had an issue with their network phone system. The City of Abilene provided them with portable radios which provided them with an interim solution.

Overall cellular service levels are near normal / pre-storm levels. Where there has been impacts on service, cellular providers are working to restore service to pre-storm levels in the impacted areas.

The various Amateur Radio groups across the state have established radio nets to include the activation of VHF / UHF repeater networks across the state. The repeaters' primary purpose is to enhance local communications. However, the repeaters can be linked to increase the coverage areas. Currently, there are multiple repeater networks linked and activated. This is providing coverage from West Texas to Central Texas to East Texas to Fort Worth, to South Central Texas and beyond.

The Amateur Operators have begun providing Critical Infrastructure Reports, providing situational awareness of their local areas.

Our private sector partners continue to monitor the situation and provide assistance as needed. Our Statewide Satellite Initiative (SSI) service provider is assessing the network and providing technical assistance to users as may be needed. There are no current issues reported regarding satellite service.

Our federal partners are monitoring the situation and stand ready to support any request for assistance.

All ESF 2 partners are continuing to monitor the situation and plan and prepare as needed.
